Web Scripting for Applications Coursework 2011/12

This module is assessment in two parts – with 40% coming from coursework and 60% coming from the end of semester exam (in January).

The coursework is submitted in the form of a log containing your solutions for the exercises and activities from the labs. This will be submitted electronically (ONLY) on 9th January 2012 (specific details on how to submit this will follow).

Part One – Weeks One to Four
You should construct a single Word document, organized into appropriate week-by-week sections with your solutions for the work.

Each activity or exercise should be represented by the following

- A short identifying title (i.e. Week 3 Exercise 2, Week 4 Class Activity 2)
- A short paragraph explaining the code (no more than 3 lines)
- The code listing
- A screen shot (or more if required)

This should be formatted correctly (with page numbers, titles and appropriate styling) to ensure that it can be read easily. Note that it is important to submit all your code – this does not require all code to be error free.

Note that this MUST be a single document.

Part Two – Weeks Five to Ten
For the second half of the semester you have a choice – you can either

Choice 1: Continue the document from Part One using the same style, including all the code and screen shots as before

Choice 2: Use an e-portfolio system to upload artifacts of your work in the second part of the semester

If you choose to use the e-portfolio system, your submission for Part Two will be automatically generated at the end of the semester (you will still need to submit the Part One Word document).

Your coursework grade will be for both the part one and part two work combined. You will need to have performed both parts to get greater than 40% in the coursework component of this course.

Grades will be awarded along these lines

40-50 Some exercises with some screen shots showing attempts at some of the exercises and activities. To achieve a passing grade of 40, it is expected that at least half of the exercises will have been attempted from most of the weeks.

50-60 Most of the exercises (well represented with accompanying information) will be shown – most of them will be correct, with at least 70% of each weeks exercises having been completed.

70+ All of the exercises will have been attempted (with most of them being correct). Every one will be well represented with appropriate accompanying information.
